From the Gallery

JoAnn Reilly

Dear artist members and supporters,

The APRIL Gallery theme show "EVERYDAY LIFE", was amazing. Inspired by a scene from daily life the artists were challenged to take an everyday situation or place and capture a timeless moment as to how or where one lives. They took the challenge and painted, collaged, photographed and made clay pieces of their beloved dogs and cats, babies and favorite places just to mention a few. The story was theirs to tell!

Fran Davidson, Lisa Argentieri and Gail Waters greeted our opening day and evening guests chatting about their artwork and making our guests feel welcomed. Thanks for all the artists who hosted the gallery this month promoting our organization and sharing their time with our visitors. Congratulations on the sale of their art goes to Susie Means, Kim Kisellus, Nancy Mills and Kathy Kerrigan!

The May gallery exhibit opened Saturday, May 5. "Restless Artists," has no theme. Please come by and see what our members have created for this month. Mother's Day is almost here and you just might find that perfect gift of art for a loved one. June will be my final Canal St. Gallery exhibit titled "Spectacular Ending". I'm looking forward to hanging the show with all your wonderful artwork. I want to thank my committee, Kathy Kerrigan, Sharon Herrold, and Patrick Rausch for their commitment and friendship over the last two years. And thanks to all the artists I've had the pleasure meeting and installing their artwork. Come and visit our members gallery of fine original and student work. Priced by the artists with no overhead added, you're sure to find a piece for your collection or a gift.

I will be installing four shows next season, in-house at the Studios, and hope to continue to enjoy our relationship formed over the last two years. Keep painting, photographing, creating in your medium.....Stay inspired!

Lagoonacy

Young guests at Lagoonacy on April 21 enjoy the Art Show and take part in the scavenger style match up, making the viewer look closely at the art to find the small square taken from a photo of the art piece. The participants were asked to write the title or scientific name next to the number corresponding to the art. (photos courtesy Carole Ryan)

LAGOONACY ART SHOW

JoAnn Reilly

The Lagoonacy in-house gallery exhibit at the AWI Studios was created for two purposes, one was to participate with Marine Discovery Center's (MDC) fundraiser and the second was to grace our walls with beautiful artwork for the installation of our new officers.

This show wasn't open to everyone, as I had four days to find artwork specific to the collaborative effort with MDC. Having worked with artists through the gallery on Canal St. for the last 2 years, I sent invites to members whose work I knew would work with this theme in a speedy and cohesive exhibit. There was a total of 79 works of art many with scientific names in the titles. Many thanks to all the artists for making this happen in such short notice. The show is fabulous.

Along with the paintings were interactive components to engage the guests coming through the workshop with the paintings and sculptures. One was a scavenger hunt style match up making the viewer look closely at the art to find the small square taken from a photo of the art piece. The participants were asked to write the title or scientific name next to the number corresponding to the art. Youngsters around the 5th grade took the challenge with great excitement, wandering through the three areas of artwork.

The 2nd interactive involved a docent, Kathy Smith, reading a poem to a guest observing a Jean Banas painting titled "Remembering". The objective of this pairing of literature and art was to bring awareness to the "one use plastic" challenge the world is facing.

Our docents interacted with the guests and invited them to visit the MDC through the open door from our gallery into their lobby, and view the exhibits explaining the length of time it takes for plastic and other recyclables to degrade in the natural environment. A real lesson on why it's so important to recycle thoughtfully.

Jill Hess and Ralph Redmond, fish painters extraordinaire, created Gyotaku fish prints with our guests of all ages. I couldn't tell who was having the most fun, Jill and Ralph or the kids!!

Joe Anglin created chalk paintings of the lagoon while Trudy Havu and Jean Banas Created lovely paintings with a nonstop group of eager young painters of sunsets, sea creatures, and lovely colored creations covering the walls in Studio D.

The art will be on display through May 25 with limited viewing times available. Most pieces are for sale.

Florida Arts Tour 2019

There is an opportunity to open your studio and display your artwork to the general public. In February of 2019 there will be an organized studio tour of certain studios in Volusia county. You must have a studio, or be a guest in another artists studio. The tour is to be called "Off The Beaten Path 2019" (OTBP). If there are any artists interested in participating in this coming OTBP tour, or have any questions about the tour, please feel free to call either Cheri Erdman, 386-847-2335, or Kathy O'Meara, 386-871-0853. We have a very short deadline for determining how many participants there will be so please respond ASAP if you are interested.

2018 - 2019 Canal St. Gallery Preview: (Liz Clayton)

As the new gallery chairman for the gallery on Canal St., I will be taking over from Joanne Reilly at the end of June. Be on the lookout for information that I will send out for the July show. In an effort to keep the gallery open all summer, this show will hang for two months, July and August. We will go to "summer hours" of being open three days a week during those months as well as First Saturday openings. I am working on some new ideas for the gallery that I hope will bring in more visitors. This includes additional advertising for the gallery as well as an opportunity for artists to display more than one painting at a time. So stay tuned!

This month the featured community exhibit is the United Church of Christ. On display are four of our talented artists: Alicia Oestman, Maggie Arndt, Gertrude Havu, and Evy Okerstrom. The UCC has a very large room for showing artwork. There are many events held there so our work is seen by many. If you would like to stop by to see this exhibit, you can enter through the Thrift store. UCC is located on Washington Ave just a couple of blocks from Canal St. Thank you Maggie for putting together this really nice show. If you would like to show your work here, please contact Maggie Arndt.

In Memoriam

Willodeen Sanders

The Artists' Workshop mourns the loss of longtime Artists' Workshop member Willodeen Oglesby Sanders, who passed away peacefully on April 2, 2018. She was a very active member until about two years ago. She was an Honorary Member, served as Chair of the Members' Show in 2001, and served on many committees.

Our deepest sympathies go out to her family and friends. Her complete obituary can be found online at: www.legacy.com/obituaries/name/willodeen-sanders-obituary?pid=188745791&view=guestbook (courtesy Daytona Beach News-Journal online)

From the President

Cheryl Faber

Thank you to all who attended our wonderful "Installation Party" which was held in our very own AWI studios. The enthusiasm, warmth and "good wishes" that were extended to me that evening, have me excited about what is to come in the next couple of years. Following Joe Anglin as president won't be easy, but I hope, with his advice and guidance, I will be able to enrich the programs that are already in place. I am also lucky to be serving with a group of officers and committee chairs who are truly committed to seeing that Artists' Workshop continues to thrive and prosper. Our membership has grown considerably in the last year, which I think reflects the quality of our teachers, the variety of classes offered and the professionalism of our workshops. We are in the planning stages of what will be a very creative and productive year. All we need now is for you, our members, to take advantage of these opportunities by taking a class or workshop, attending our meetings, becoming active in an open studio, and most importantly, by volunteering any amount of time you can. So, I am hoping that everyone has a wonderful and restful summer, and comes back in the fall feeling energized and looking forward to learning, sharing and volunteering during our 2018-2019 season!
