HOMEWORK to have for workshop:

REFERENCE MATERIAL: Have your own resource material to work from.

Your own photos, sketches, drawings, etc. of the subject matter that appeals to you and that you normally work from. Photos you want to work from are easier to gather information if they are blown up to approximately 8x10

At some point we will be painting “light”. Make sure your photos are taken in sunlight or with a “single” light source so your reference material fits this concept.

(True frontal lighting isn't good; it flattens out the light pattern on your subject. NO FLASH.)

Side lighting works best (cast shadows will go sideways); back lit also is good.

I paint close-ups usually, but any subject matter with “light” can be addressed
(ex. figures, landscapes, flowers, macro imagery).

I am a planner, and I will be showing you my whole process.

Looking forward to seeing you all; plan on working hard. Any questions e-mail me:
